Wyoming online legal resources are not official.
Even though they are not official, most people treat the state's online legal resources as if they were. Given the fact that the source of the data for most of the online sources is exactly the same as for the creation of the official source, there is only a small chance of discrepancy.

Wyoming is not addressing the authentication of online legal resources.
Research indicates that at the present time there are no moves to add any authenticating marks to the documents.

Has the state eliminated the print publication of any of these titles in favor of online only since the 2007 report? No.

Has the state enacted legislation guaranteeing the public's permanent access to state online government information since the 2007 report? No.

Have courts in your state adopted a medium neutral citation system since the 2007 report? The Wyoming Supreme Court adopted medium neutral citation in 2000.

- By what mechanism was the system adopted. Court Order.
- Where can a user find directions to understand the system? Both the Original Order and the Amending Order are Online at the Court's website: <http://www.courts.state.wy.us/LawLibrary/wyjud.aspx>. The Orders contain instructions on how the citation system is to be used.
- What new technology, if any, did the court use to implement the system? Adoption required the use of macros for paragraph numbering (which were provided by the court system in Oklahoma) and the creation of a central file for registering the use of the citation numbers.

Have there been any other significant changes to the 2007 state summary? No.
