We look forward to seeing you there!

Join speaker Mary Ellen Bates as she discusses the future of library services, and how we can capitalize on changes in our profession to make ourselves and our libraries more integral and valued parts of our organizations. This will be followed by an interactive panel discussion of librarians including:

- Jamie LaRue, Director, Douglas County Libraries
- Joan Policastri, Foreign, Comparative & International Law Librarian, DU Law Library
- Matthew Elisha, Manager Library Services, Bryan Cave HRO
- Heidi Longaberger, Owner, Longaberger InformationWorks

Panel members will discuss what does (and doesn’t) work in making effective and longstanding change.

After attending this program, participants will:

- List 4 ways changes to library services would add value to your organization to help it grow
- Discuss 2 methods of promoting library services to increase patron use
- Plan 3 strategies to make your library and yourself more visible within your organization
- Predict 2 technologies that will change the way you deliver library services in the future and 4 ways you can utilize those technologies in your organization
